

For years I dismissed those worried about the dangers of media consolidation. I thought them overwrought with concern. But this situation with the Sinclair Broadcasting Group pretending "Stolen Honor" is a news program and forcing its stations to air this one sided viewpoint has alerted me to the problem of a public resource being misused.

I remember when radio and tv served us better. I am now signing on in the public interest and plan to work to reclaim the airwaves for democracy.